

The Homer Fitts Co.

Incorporated

"The Store Where Quality Counts"

Blankets for cold nights coming

With ease and dispatch, you may select nice, warm blankets, for our assortment is unusually large, the values are exceptional and the color combinations are unusually pretty and pleasing.

COTTON BLANKETS—Sheet Blankets, light weight Cotton Blankets that so many people use instead of sheets during the Winter; White and Gray; $1.75, $2.50, $3.25

WOOLNAP BLANKETS—Full size, good weight, in White and Gray with blue and pink borders; $6.00, $6.98

PART WOOL BLANKETS—White with pink, blue and yellow borders; Will cleanse beautifully and look like new; size 70x80 ..... $10.50

EXTRA FINE QUALITY BLANKETS—Made of fine California wool, with enough of cotton to prevent shrinking; White with pink, blue and yellow borders; $13.50, $15.00

You Will Have to Look a Long Time for Better Comforters Than These

You are sure to like them immediately—not only because of the comfortable warmth which their soft fluffiness insures, but for their dainty attractiveness, too. Particularly pleasing are those which boast centers of silkline, plentifully sprinkled with flowers in your favorite hue. They have plain borders of sateen in harmonizing tones.

$5.50 and $6.50

WEBSTERVILLE

There will be an entertainment at the Baptist church next Friday evening, given by the W. C. T. U. of East Barre. Everyone is invited and it is sure to be good. Refreshments. Admission, 10c and 25c—adv.

Hose Co., No. 1, will hold its 22d annual ball in opera house hall Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 26. Carroll's orchestra of five pieces. Dancing from 8 till 2. Admission, $1, plus war tax—adv.

Cecil B. De Mille's Artcraft photoplay, "The Squaw Man," will be the attraction at the Palace theatre on Thanksgiving day. This splendid picture of Edwin Milton Royle's famous play is filled with tremendous human interest and we recommend it to your attention. You will be impressed with its magnitude and exceptional charm. Also "Smashing Career," a Sunshine comedy. Matinee at 2:30; evening at 7:30. Prices, matinee, 11c and 17c; evening, all seats 17c—adv.

Parcel sale; see adv. Bell & Houston.

FORGET YOUR RHEUMATISM

Don't suffer when you can get "Neutrone Prescription 99". Rheumatism, one of the most common ailments, is one of the hardest to cure, because of its being a blood disease. Any remedy to be effective must purify the blood and kidneys, common sense teaches you this. That is why "Neutrone Prescription 99" is so successful. It is a combination of blood purifying agents prepared from the prescription of a specialist.

It relieves those sore, inflamed joints and muscles. "It puts out the fire." It does all these things, restores your health, makes you happy and free from pain.

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle, then say, good-bye, Rheumatism. 50c and $1.00 the bottle. For sale by E. A. Drown, the druggist, and leading druggists everywhere.

Thanksgiving Week

You must need something in our line to replenish your wardrobe.

We have anticipated your wants and are well stocked with the right kind of merchandise. And they tell us our prices are a little under the other fellow.

GIVE US A LOOK.

The Frank McWhorter Co.

BARRE DAILY TIMES

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1919.

The Weather.

Rain to-night, possibly preceded by snow in eastern Maine; warmer on Wednesday rain probably turning to snow and colder in New Hampshire and Vermont; southwest winds slowly increasing.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Don't miss Shea's big sale—adv. Christmas cards; buy early. Bell & Houston.

See "The Brat," Park theatre to-night—adv.

A. P. Carey left this morning for Burlington.

Boys' all wool suits, sizes to 10, $5, at Lamorey's.

Twenty per cent discount on all hats. Mrs. E. A. Witham.

See the new models in suits and overcoats at Lamorey's.

Arthur Seizer, teacher of violin. Tel. 680, 50 Wellington street, Barre.

If not this dessert, then try our chocolates. See our adv. Barre Drug Co.

Mrs. K. O'Halloran of Burlington visited at the home of Mrs. Charles Zancione yesterday.

A. J. Levan, local manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., together with J. J. Bizzozero, an agent, is passing a day or two in Northfield on business.

Home for Christmas. Time for booking. Cunard, Anchor and Anchor & Donaldson lines. Prompt service. Gault & Robertson, agents, Aldrich block, Barre; 641-W—adv.

John Trow of Washington street, who for the past week has been confined to the house suffering from sciatic rheumatism, is better. Mrs. Harry Campbell is caring for him.

John Paetiti of Quincy, Mass., who usually passes the winter seasons in Barre, arrived here yesterday with intentions of continuing his vocation as a stonecutter during the winter season.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Abbiatti, who came here three weeks ago from Buffalo, N. Y., having just been married, were among the number of Italians to leave yesterday for a pleasure trip to their native home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dugbar motored from Barre to their camp on St. Albans bay yesterday afternoon to remain during the rest of the week. Mr. Dugbar took a quantity of ammunition for duck hunting, his favorite pastime.

The railroad track in front of the Trow & Holden shops is undergoing much needed repairs. The badly decayed plankings is being removed and new boards put in its place. Extensive repairs are to be made in that locality.

A. E. Aldrich of White River Junction, a repairman on the Western Union clocks, is in Barre for a few days adjusting the numerous electric clocks in Barre. He leaves to-night for Burlington, where he has several days' work repairing clocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson and child, who have been residing on Washington street, completed the shipment of their household furnishings to Los Angeles, Cal., and yesterday started for the western city, where they will permanently reside because of Mrs. Anderson's health.

Charles Collins, a barber of the Miers downtown shop, and Jildo Crippio of Montpelier have gone to Massachusetts for a week's vacation. They left here by automobile yesterday afternoon for Boston and after passing a day or two there they will go on a bear and deer hunting expedition of several days in the Berkshire county district.

S. M. Curtis of Dutch Flat, Cal., left here this morning for Filmore, Mass., to visit with relatives before returning to his home in California. For the past 10 days he has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. Flora Beard of Orange, whom he had not seen for 30 years, this being his first trip to the northern part of the United States in that time.

Horace Richardson, proprietor of the Calder & Richardson coal firm, gave his employees a surprise yesterday when he presented each a turkey for a Thanksgiving present. The 11 turkeys, weighing from nine to 14 pounds, were distributed to the 11 employees, according to the size of the employee's family, or, if single, he was presented one of the smaller birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cook, who were married yesterday in Manchester, N. H., arrived in Barre this morning and will visit for a few days at the home of Mrs. Cook's mother, Mrs. Lizzie Cook of Perrin street. Joseph Cook and Catherine Allen, who have resided in Manchester for the past few years, were united in marriage in the St. Joseph church yesterday morning. Mr. Cook is further in one of the factories in Manchester. Mrs. Cook is also an employee in the shoe factory. They will visit for a few days with friends and relatives and then they will return to Manchester, where they will make their home.

The Central Vermont station was the scene of many farewells last night for 114, for that it was the last of Italian people, four of whom were accompanied by children, making a total of 31 travelers, started on the first lap of their homeward journey to Italy. A crowd of nearly 200 countrymen from the Italian colony were bidding them farewell and good wishes for the Atlantic journey. Many of this number are returning to Italy to spend the winter months and a long desired visit with relatives, and intend to return to this city in the spring. The group leaving last night included Giovanni Bazzaglia, Angelo Pedretti, Domenico Piazza, Giovanni Pedretti, Angelo Vedani, Luigi Rinaldo, Angelo Georgetti, Enrico Airolodi, Giuseppe Vanetti, aged seven, Madeline Abbiatti and two children, Giuseppe Piffretti and two children of Montpelier, Giuseppe Barbasconi, Giovanni Spagnoli, Luigi Bottazzini, V. Rossi, J. Marchesi, Luigi Natvi, Amedeo Bertini, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ferrar and four children, F. Dell'Orto and Antonio Chiodi of Chiodi Brothers' Granite Co., who was accompanied by his daughter. These people will be joined by two or three more of their countrymen from Barre this week and together sail from New York on the steamship Adriatic that leaves port Nov. 28 for Milano, Italy.

Regular meeting of Iron-quois tribe, No. 16, to-night at 7 o'clock; work, chief's degree.

Regular stated convention of Vintella lodge, No. 10, K. of P., of P. J. Joimstown Grange & Marble Works, Johnson, Pa. 215412

TENEMENTS TO RENT—Four, 5, 6 rooms; good location and improvements; $50.00 per month. 6 Park street. 21546-W.

TO RENT—Tenement of 4 rooms, $10 per month; hot water, electric lights; Maple avenue, Smith place; Smith Bros. 21546

See "The Brat," Park theatre to-night—adv.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Attend Shea's big slipper sale—adv. Plenty of all wool trousers, $5 to $10. Lamorey's.

See "The Brat," Park theatre to-night—adv.

Sale of hats, a good variety, from $1.50 up. Mrs. Mariani.

See the bargains in millinery. Mrs. Birnie, 4 Laurel street—adv.

Presbyterian fair and supper Dec. 3-4. Gifts for Christmas—adv.

Lieut. C. A. Perry of Waterbury was among the visitors in Barre to-day.

Regular meeting of Sons of Veterans' auxiliary Wednesday evening, Nov. 26, at 8 o'clock.

A Butcher of Cable street was taken this morning to the Barre City hospital for treatment.

No vacation period other than the day will be observed at Goddard seminary on Thanksgiving day.

Home-made chicken-pie, served for supper and during evening Wednesday at Eureka restaurant—adv.

Special bargain in table damask and crash for towels. Little Dry Goods Store, Cottage street, off Main.

South Barre grange will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, Nov. 27, at 8 o'clock. Conferring of first and second degrees.

Leo Sawyer, who is employed in Hardwick, has returned to that place after spending several days with his family in Barre.

Mrs. Isabella Johnson returned to her home in this city last night, after spending the past ten days with relatives in Wollaston, Mass.

Michael Keefe, jr., now employed as an attendant at the state institution in Waterbury, returned to Waterbury yesterday after having passed the week end at his home at 38 Foster street.

Mrs. Annie Holmes, who spends her summers at Sunset Hill house, Sugar Hill, N. H., is visiting friends here for a few days before going to Lowell, Mass., later to Lisbon, N. H., where she will spend the winter.

George C. McGrillis, who has been making a combined business and pleasure visit in Barre for the past few days, has returned to his home in Marshfield. He has been stopping with his aunt, Mrs. C. M. Clark of Brook street.

Charles Villa, a former well-known Barre resident, is visiting in the city before going to Canada, where he expects to lay considerable codfish for the R. C. Williams Co. of New York City. Mr. Villa is now located in New York, having an establishment at 108 West 64th street, where he disposes of sweet chocolate and confections imported from Spain and Cuba.

One of the best lecture programs of the season was held Saturday evening at Goddard. The program consisted of a debate, several musical selections and a humorous one-act farcical production of "The Graduating Exercises of Pumpkin Center Institute." The play, "The Bachelor Maids," will be presented at the seven-cent fair to be given at the seminary on Dec. 9.

To be sold to settle estate: Country store in fine location and best store in town; stock on hand would invoice for about $3,000; will sell for $5 per cent of invoice to close out in the next four days. In either rent or sell the building in which store and good tenement are located. The first man who looks this over will purchase, as there is a fortune to be made here. The D. A. Perry Real Estate Agency.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.

David Farrand, purchaser of the victory arch, assisted by Clyde Lawless, began the work of raising the arch and its statutory this morning. The plaster horses and symbol of liberty were destroyed, being used for models or anything useful. It is the intention of Mr. Farrand to preserve the two eagles and some of the figures adorning the front and rear of the edifice. These may be used as models for granite work and for this purpose one or two of these figures have been purchased.